Wyner-Mosenfelder Wedding Is a Brilliant Affair

One of the most elaborate and brilliant weddings of the season was celebrated last evening at 6 o'clock at the Davenport Hotel, when Miss Helen Grace Mosenfelder, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mosenfelder of Davenport, was united in marriage to Herman Sidney Wyner of Boston, the ceremony being performed by Rabbi A. L. Weinstein of Temple Emanuel, Davenport. It was an American beauty wedding, and was witnessed by a company of 150 couples, largely relatives of the bride.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Louis Rosenstock, of Cleveland, Ohio, served her as matron of honor, and a quartet of four girls were the bridesmaids: Misses Carmel MacNeil, Alina Brownlie, Margaret Wyner and Dorothy Becker, the last of Chicago, a schoolmate of the bride at Smith college. The groom's best man was A. J. Berenson of Boston, and the ushers were Peter Hitzkopf and John Mosenfelder, the brother of the bride. A trio of young folks, Betty Spencer, Charlie Spencer and Arthur Spencer, also attended the bride, the former dressed in white lace carrying picture hats filled with American beauty roses, which they scattered before the bride as she came down the stairs.

The latter child was dressed from head to toe in white satin and acted as page, carrying the bride's train. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin made with the court train and embroidered in silver threads. She wore the long full veil which was held with a crown of orange blossoms. She carried a chain of diamonds set in platinum.

The matron of honor wore her wedding gown of white tulle with trimmings of lace, and she carried American beauty roses. The bridesmaids were dressed alike in American beauty tulle with white silk net with the bodice trimmed in gold lace and each wore a cap of lace with a big American beauty rose at one side.

The bridesmaid came two by two down the stairs carrying long staves of green with sprays of American beauty roses, and held together by long garlands of American beauty roses, in ribbon tied to the staffs with large bows, and as the bride passed the bridesmaids formed with these garlands an aisle. The ushers led the way, followed by the bridesmaids, the flower girls, the bride walking alone, the matron of honor and lastly the bride's parents. Mrs. Mosenfelder wearing black satin embroidered in gold.

The decorations throughout the entire club house were in American beauty and Richmond roses. In the north end of the lower hall, where the ceremony was performed, was erected a square bower of southern smilax in porch effect with green latices and American beauty roses, tall vases filled with the roses being placed at either side of the bower. Throughout the rooms were the potted needle pines and roses. In the square dining room the bride's table was set, having as its decorations three large baskets of Richmond roses, one in the center and one at either end. Garlands of red satin ribbon extended from these baskets and terminated in big bows on the cloth. Red candles lighted the table and gold wedding bells were the place cards. Smaller tables were scattered throughout the rooms and had roses and candles as their trimmings.

The Criterion orchestra furnished the music, playing the wedding march and recessional and the music for dancing which followed. Mr. and Mrs. Wyner left last night for an extended eastern wedding trip and will later be at home in Boston. Mr. Wyner is a graduate of the Boston university, and completed his law course at Harvard law school, and is now a practicing attorney in Boston. Miss Mosenfelder attended Smith college, and is a member of the Delta Upsilon society, and is popular among the younger social set of the tri-city.
